

10 in-demand jobs of the future

10 professions that need to draw in the attention of today's students and parents.

1. Consultant on privacy

The person who will eliminate vulnerabilities and to check privacy settings and the security of your accounts in social networks, emails, managers etc.

2. City superintendent

Expert on living spaces in the metropolis. Specialists in this field will help to grow plants on the roofs and upper floors of skyscrapers.

3. Designer natural interfaces

The programmer who is going to adapt the gadgets of new generation for control of the ordinary user. His task will be to teach the device to understand gestures and voice commands "dummies".

4. Specialist in crowdfunding

Expert fundraiser for start-UPS using services like kickstarter. These are sites where authors post projects with description and indication of amount required to start.

5. Developer of augmented reality

Specialist in developing programs for gadgets like Google Glass. For example, the doctor can see the patient through special glasses that projected an x-ray and test results.

6. Analyst recycling

The specialists will analyze the possibility of processing waste and use them as an energy source.

7. Engineer GMO

Non-GMO fast growing population of the planet will not support themselves. GMO engineers will be most in demand professionals in the agricultural sector, as it is written in the essay writing service in dubai log.

8. Educator curiosity

A personal Advisor, which clients will hire in order to develop the capacity for knowledge of the world. Obviously, education can be a psychologist.

9. Nanotechnology

Engineer, whose task will be to develop objects with the use of nanotechnology in medicine, electronics, IT industry. The most popular destination will be the creation of nanorobots.

10. Designer implants

Profession at the crossroads of medicine and design. Experts in the field of replacement of damaged or diseased organs and limbs "smart" implants.